COMPAS Youth incorporates a theory-based approach to assessment. It is designed to incorporate key scales from several of the most important theoretical explanations of crime and delinquency including Social Bonding and Control Theory, Strain Theory, General Theory of Crime, Criminal Opportunity/Lifestyle theories, Moffitt's taxonomy of juvenile offenders and Bandura's cognitive model of moral development. Extensive measurements assess the key areas of family, school and peer contexts, in addition to individual personality and cognitive characteristics of youth.

FULLY SCALABLE

COMPAS Youth allows you to easily select any combination of its risk and needs scales to most effectively and efficiently inform your decision support needs across the youth's processing continuum. After selecting your scale combinations COMPAS Youth saves them as custom "scale sets" for repeated use in the assessment wizard. The main COMPAS Youth Bar Chart Report visually presents the level of risk/need for each activated scale. COMPAS Youth allows for the reassessment of the offender over time and allows the user to "overlay" the current assessment chart over any previous assessment to visually compare dynamic changes in risk and need.

DETENTION SCREENER

COMPAS Youth includes our Detention Screener decision support tool designed to assist in determining the appropriate level of placement at initial arrest – from Secure Placement to Release to Family. Point and click question responses guide the user through the decision tree to the recommended placement.
