As the number of women in prisons and jails increase in the U.S., correctional agencies are modifying strategies to better meet the needs of females and also address the impact their imprisonment has on children and families. COMPAS Women provides a gender-responsive, culturally sensitive assessment approach tailored to the risks and needs of women that helps case manager's make more appropriate treatment, supervision and reentry decisions.

SELECT COMBINATIONS OF GENDER NEUTRAL AND WOMEN'S SCALES

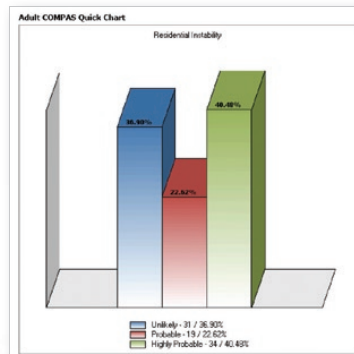

COMPAS allows the user to create various combinations of scale sets using both gender neutral and women specific scales to provide the most flexible coverage of risk and needs. COMPAS Women also produces a "prototypical" female offender report. These typologies are described in the software and the COMPAS Women's assessment assigns offenders to their nearest prototype. Mainly explanatory and for treatment planning - the report assists in recognizing frequently recurring female case-types. In conjunction with the detailed main risk/need bar chart report, the typology assignment gives a "general direction" to assist in determining the best treatment and supervision plan for the offender's type.

INTEGRATED CASE PLANNING

COMPAS includes an integrated case planning module that provides a template automatically populated with the female offender's assessed needs results. Easy to use drop downs of "user configured" goals, tasks and activities tied to each need allows the user to build, and update over time, a custom case plan for each offender. The case plan also allows for the tracking of individual task referral, start and termination dates, termination reasons, service providers and other case outcomes.

QUICK CHART REPORTS

COMPAS includes a simple to use reporting feature for quick charting of your population's risk/need profiles.
